Introduction

About Right Word Wrong Word

Little green men

In 1877 the Italian astronomer Giovanni Schiaparelli (1835-1910) observed some markings on the planet Mars which he referred to as canali. This was mistranslated into English as canals, suggesting man-made structures and the existence of intelligent life on Mars, instead of channels, which occur naturally. The idea of canals appealed to the imaginations of scientists and novelists alike. The astronomer Percival Lowell used it as the basis for his 'scientific observations', recorded in such works as Mars and its Canals (1908). The novelist H.G. Wells was inspired to write his powerful story about the invasion of the earth by Martians, The War of the Worlds (1898). In 1938, a simulated newscast of this novel was broadcast, describing the Martian invasion of New Jersey, which reduced millions of listeners to a state of near panic. The idea of Martians was not exploded till 1965 when the US spacecraft Mariner 4 sent back close-up pictures of Mars, which proved conclusively that there were no canals and no little green men!

The story shows how powerfully mother tongue interference can affect our understanding of a foreign language, with unpredictable consequences. It also shows how we have to suppress our own language if we want to acquire a foreign language.

What is Right Word Wrong Word?

Right Word Wrong Word is a Reference and Practice Book based on common errors in English. It covers items like the following:

- Words often confused, where the student's native language interferes with English (false friends): for example, benzine/petrol.
- Word-confusions that exist within English itself: for example, rob/steal/burgle.
- Structures in the student's language that interfere with English structures: for example, it has compared with there is/it is.
- Confusions of structures within English itself: for example, must/had to.
- Particular words and structures which are a well-known source of error: for example, get and enjoy.

Right Word Wrong Word is therefore a comprehensive usage book that provides answers to students' questions that are not easily available from any other source.

Who is the book for?

The book is suitable for students of English as a foreign or second language at intermediate level and above, whether they are preparing for examinations or not. It is also suitable for teachers. It extends the knowledge of non-native teachers by clarifying the meanings and uses of related items; it sensitizes native-speaking teachers by making them aware of mistakes that students really make. For both kinds of teachers, it is a handy reference for dealing with awkward questions on the spot.

The basis of the selection

I have been collecting 'right word wrong word' items since the early 1960s and my collection has grown into a large database. This database was checked against the Longman Learners' Corpus (drawn from 70 countries) and then filtered through a representative spread of languages, including Arabic, European (Germanic, Romance, Greek, Slavonic) and Asiatic (Japanese). The words in this collection are the survivors of the original database that followed this investigation and number more than 5,000 items.

A description of the material

The material consists of the following sections:

- A reference section (pages 1-201)
- Test Yourself (pages 203-283)
- Answer Key (pages 284-288)
- Technical Terms (pages 289-290)
- Index (pages 291-308)

How to use Right Word Wrong Word

Index

If you are in doubt about the use of a word, look in the index to find it, then go to the reference section. You may have to do this more than once to locate the meaning you are looking for. When you find the word you want, check whether the mistake listed is one you are likely to make yourself and which you must train yourself to suppress.

The reference section

The 'wrong word' is generally listed first, followed by the 'right word'. For example:

block *pad

- *I've brought this nice new pad to take notes during the meeting. (Not block)* (pad/writing pad = sheets of paper held together, used for writing or drawing)
- How did the ancient Egyptians cut and move such huge stone blocks ?
(= stone, wood, etc., cut with straight sides)

Some words appear in different places. For example, mark has its own entry, but is also listed under grade/mark/degree, note down/mark and speck/spot/mark. The reference section focuses sharply on particular problems of contrast or use. It is not a dictionary and so does not deal with every possible meaning of a particular word.

Technical terms

The terms used in the reference section are briefly explained on pages 289-290.

Test Yourself

Exercises 1-41 are suitable for students of all levels, but especially for intermediate; exercises 42-96 are upper intermediate and advanced. The exercises deal with topics (e.g. health), functions (e.g. doing things for people) or grammar (e.g. phrasal verbs). You may work through the exercises in the order they occur, or pick and choose, according to level.

1. Attempt an exercise, then check your answers in the answer key.
2. Look up any item or items you aren't sure of in the index, which will refer you to the reference section.

Practise using the items you have learned in your own speech and writing.

a* an

- Kirsty's got an MA. in history.
(Not a MA. in history)
- She's got a Master's degree.
(Not an Master's degree)
(a + consonant sound; an + vowel sound)

a/an * one

- I need a screwdriver to do this job properly.
(Not one screwdriver)
- It was one coffee I ordered, not two.
(Not a coffee)
(a/an = 'any one', 'it doesn't matter which'; one, two, etc., when we are counting)

a/an • some

- Please bring me a glass/an envelope.
- I want some glasses/some envelopes.
- I want some water. (Not a water)
- I'd like a coffee please.
(some = an unspecified number or amount is the plural of a/an where the reference is to quantity; we normally use a/an only with countable nouns. We also use a/an for all drinks seen as a complete measure: a coffee, a beer, but use some for fluids of which there is more in the tap, bottle, etc.: some water, some wine)

a/an • (-)

- Lucy wants to be a doctor.
(Not wants to be doctor)
- Kevin wants to be an electrician.
(Not wants to be electrician)
(a/an + singular countable noun) ability to

- I wasn't happy at school until I found I had the ability to make people laugh.
(Not ability of/on making) (from able to)

able • possible

- It will be possible to see you on Friday.*
(Not It will be able)
- I'll be able to see you on Friday.*
(Not I'll be possible)
(It + possible; human subject + able) about•around

- Few people can afford to go on a cruise (a)round the world. (Not about)
(a)round for circular movement)
- They've built a motorway (a)round London.
(= surrounding, encircling)

- The fax was received at around/about 8 pm.
(= approximately; but approximately in place of around and about is very formal)
- *The journey took about/around an hour.
(Not an hour about an hour around) (preposition + object)

about • on • over

- Have you read this article on the Antarctic?
- There's an article about tourism in today's paper. (preferable to on)
(on for serious and specific information; about for general interest)
- Let's agree to differ. Let's not have an argument over/about it. (Not on) (over after argument, concern, dispute)

abroad

- John has gone/is abroad on business.
(Not has gone to abroad/is at abroad)
(abroad is an adverb, not a noun; be/live/go abroad are fixed phrases, otherwise we have to say come/return from abroad, where abroad is used as a noun)

absent oneself * absent

- Where's Jane today? - She's absent. I think she's ill. (Not She has absented herself)
- The soldier absented himself without leave for three weeks and was arrested.
(be absent from = 'not present'; absent oneself implies deliberate rule-breaking)

absent • away

- I'm going on holiday and I'll be away for a fortnight. (preferable to absent)
- How many students were absent from your class today? (Not away) (away = elsewhere; absent = not present) abstracted • absent-minded • distracted

- *Professor Boffin is generally very absent-minded. (Not abstracted distracted) (= not paying attention to present reality)
- Sorry, I didn't hear what you said. I was abstracted for a moment.
(= thinking about something else)
- Sorry, I didn't hear what you said. I was distracted by the telephone.
(i.e. something claimed my attention) abuse • insult • swear at • curse

- The sergeant major abused the soldiers unmercifully.
(= shouted at them and called them names)
- Mrs Tomkins insulted the bride's family by refusing to attend her son's wedding.
(= behaved in a way that caused offence)

- Traffic wardens rightly ignore motorists who swear at them.
(= use foul language)
- Before he died, the religious leader cursed all enemies of the faith.
(= asked God to do them harm)
- Don't curse/swear under your breath.

accede to • comply with (= obey, go along with)

- I acceded to his request for a reference.
(Not complied with) (= agreed to, consented to; formal) accept • agree to/with

- They invited me to their wedding and I've agreed to go. (Not accepted to go) (agree to do something)
- She offered me some clothes her children had grown out of and I accepted them, (accept + object = take what is offered)
- I don't accept your opinion/agree with your opinion that we can't control inflation.
(agree with an opinion)

accept • allow • admit

- They won't admit anyone to the theatre/allow anyone into the theatre after the performance has started. (Not accept) (= give someone the right to go in)
- If the performance has started, they just won't allow you in/admit you. (Not admit you in allow you accept you) (= let you go in)
- I applied to join the club, but they won't accept me. (Not admit allow) (= let me join)

accessories • spare parts • reserve • spare tyre

- My car hasn't been repaired yet because the garage is still waiting for spare parts.
(Not accessories reserves)
(= essential replacement parts to keep a machine in running order)
- My new car has a whole lot of accessories, including a roof rack. (Not reserves) (= additional, but not essential parts)
- Where is the spare tyre kept in this vehicle?
(Not reserve reserve tyre)
- Does this motorbike have a reserve fuel tank? (Not spare)
(i.e. which could be used if needed)

accident * incident * episode

- Someone rammed the back of my car. It was an unfortunate accident. (Not episode) (= an unplanned happening, often bad)
- There was an unpleasant incident on the train this morning when a drunk attacked one of the passengers. (Not episode)
(= a single happening, good or bad)
- That was an episode/incident in my life which I'm not proud of.
(episode - one part of a continuing story) accidentally • unfortunately

- I knocked on your door, but unfortunately you were out. (Not accidentally) (= unluckily)
- I've accidentally dialled the wrong number.
(= by chance, by mistake)

accommodation

- While touring Britain, we found (some) excellent accommodation in old inns.
(note the spelling, not accomodation accommodation; uncountable: not an accommodation; the plural form accommodations is AmE only)

accomplish • perform

- Soldiers must perform their duties without asking questions. (Not accomplish) (= do a task, a service)
- Churchill accomplished a great deal while he was Prime Minister. (Not performed)

(= acquired skills)
- Did the completion of the Eurotunnel go according to plan?
(Not achievement accomplishment) (= finishing) accord • behalf • account • part

- We're acting on behalf of our client/on our client's behalf. (Not accord part)
- Don't go to all that trouble on my behalf/on my account. (Not on my accord) (= for me)
- That was a mistake on my part.
(= by me)
- I didn't ask her to do the washing-up. She did it of her own accord. (Not off/on her own behalf on her own accord) (= without being asked)

according to • by • in my opinion

- It's 4.30 according to/by the station clock. (= as shown by; both possible when referring to clocks and watches)
- According to many scientists, the level of the oceans is rising. (Not By) (= as stated by other people)
- In my opinion, scientists take a pessimistic view. (Not According to my opinion/To me To/After/By my opinion)

account: on any/no account

- You mustn't disturb him on any account. On no account must you disturb him. (Not with no account/in any account)

(preferable to mind me asking)
- To my mind, that's no way to spend a holiday. (Not In my mind)
(= in my opinion)

mine • my

- My car's a Ford. (Not Mine car)
(my is a possessive adjective, so we use it in front of a noun)
- This car here is mine. (Not my) (mine is a possessive pronoun, so we use it on its own) minority

- Only a minority is/are against the proposal.
(a/the minority - without of- takes a singular or plural verb, otherwise we have to say a/the minority of people are; note that a minority means less than half of a number and cannot be used with uncountable quantities like time)

minute • just a minute

- Do hurry up! - Just a minute!
(Not Minute!* A minute!)
(avoid One minute! unless you are a person in authority and/or e.g. giving orders)
- Wait for me here. I'll only be a minute/I'll be with you in a minute.
- I'll tell him the minute he arrives.
(Not the minute he will arrive)

miracle

- I'll do my best, but don't expect me to do/work/perform a miracle! (Not make)

(= accidentally gave birth too early)
- Abortion raises difficult moral questions.
(= the deliberate ending of pregnancy)

miser • miserly • mean/stingy

- It makes no sense to be mean/stingy with your money when you're alive and then leave a fortune to your heirs. (Not miser) (= ungenerous; miserly is literary)
- The old miser preferred to leave all his money to a dogs' home than to his children.
(a miser is a mean or stingy person who hates giving anything and likes to hoard money and possessions)

miserable/wretched • poor

- Mother Teresa devoted her life to the poor.
(= those without money; poor and miserable occurs as a fixed phrase in e.g. She lived to a poor and miserable old age.)
- I've had a cold for three weeks and I'm feeling miserable/wretched. (Not poor) (= very unhappy)

misery • poverty

- Poverty is the greatest source of misery.
(poverty = lack of money; misery = unhappiness)
- The air traffic controllers' strike made our flight home (an) absolute misery.
(= a state of pain, unhappiness, discomfort)

Miss/Ms

- Good morning, Miss/Ms Jackson.
(Miss is followed by a surname; on its own, it is sometimes used by schoolchildren: Please Miss! From one adult to another, e.g. a customer, Ma'am or Madam is more) socially acceptable than Miss: Can I help you Ma'am/Madam? rather than Miss; Ms /miz, məz/ + surname refers both to married and unmarried women and is more common in writing than speech)

miss • lose • fail

- I've lost my pen. (Not missed)
(i.e. I can't find it) movement • motion • traffic • business

- The traffic in London is very heavy during rush hour. (Not movement* *motion)
- Shopkeepers say there isn't much business at the moment. (Not movement* *motion)
- The movement/motion of the ship has made me feel quite seasick. (= changing position)

Mr • Sir

- Can I help you, Sir? (Not Mr)
(Sir is the form of address to a man whose name you don't know, e.g. a customer. It is used instead of Mr + surname from a junior to a senior person: e.g. in organizations and schools. In AmE Sir is commonly used to address a male stranger or acquaintance. We can begin a letter to a man we don't know with Dear Sir, not Dear Mr. In BrE, Sir + first name may be used to address a titled man. We can say Sir John or Sir John Smith, but not Sir Smith)
- Good morning, Mr Smith. (Not Good morning, Mr Good morning, Mr John.)
(Mr is the written form of Mister, we use it in front of a surname, but never in front of a first name. A full stop after Mr to mark an abbreviation is optional; the modern tendency is to leave it out)

Mrs • Madam • lady

- Can I help you, Madam?
(Not Mrs lady)
(Madam is the form of address to a woman whose name you don't know, e.g. a customer. In AmE Ma'am is often used to address a female stranger or acquaintance. We can begin a letter to a woman we don't know with Dear Madam, not Dear Mrs/Dear Lady. In BrE, Lady + first name (Lady Ann) or + surname (Lady de Vere) is used to address a titled woman)
- Good morning, Mrs Smith. (Not Good morning, Mrs. Good morning, lady Good morning, Mrs Ann.) (Mrs + name is the form we use to address a married woman; we use it in front of a surname, but not in front of a first name)
- Mrs Wilkins is a very nice lady.
(lady is a polite/respectful way of referring to a woman)

much/price

- How much is this tie? (preferable to What price is ... ?; not What price has? How many is/has? What it makes?)
- It's 24 dollars. (Not It has 24 dollars. It has price 24 dollars.)

much • far • a lot • very (intensifiers)

- A mountain bike is much/far/a lot better than an ordinary one. (Not very better) (much/far/a lot + comparative, or we can say very much + comparative: very much better, very much faster)

- How was the concert? - Very good. (Not Much good Far good A lot good.)
- This battery isn't much good/isn't very good. (Not far good a lot good)
- I don't much like fish. I don't like fish much/a lot. I don't like fish very much. (not much/not a lot with like and enjoy)

- Fidel is a fine musician. (Not music)
(= a performer, composer, etc.)
- I like that music. (Not those musics) (music is uncountable)

must

- She must leave early tomorrow. (Not must to leave musts to leave musts leave) (no to-infinitive or third person -(e)s ending after must and other modal verbs)
- Must you leave now? (Not Do you must?) must • had to

- Our son was very ill last night and we had to call the doctor. (Not must call musted call musted to call) (must has no past form and we use had to to express 'inescapable obligation' in the past)

- My lawyer said he must/had to warn me not to answer any questions.
(we can use must or had to as past forms in indirect speech) must • have to

- We have to complete these tax returns before the end of the month.
(have to is often preferable to must when we refer to an 'external authority')
- You really must come and see us some time.
(must is always preferable to have to for 'pressing invitations') must • should/ought to

- I'm sure your mother's worried. You should phone/ought to phone her.
(should and ought to when we give advice)
- We must leave by 3 to avoid the rush hour.
(Not should leave/ought to leave) (must for 'inescapable obligation') must • will have to

- I will have to phone them/must phone them tomorrow morning. (Not will must phone* *will must to phone) (we use must or will have to to refer to future obligation; must has no future form) must have • had to • should have/ought to have

- I didn't know you'd been so ill. You should have told/ought to have told me.
(Not must have told* *had to tell) (i.e. it was your duty to do this, but you didn't do it)
James could see I wasn't well, so I had to tell him about it. (Not must have told) (had to for 'inescapable obligation' in the past: I did tell him about it)
- Here's a note from Colin. He must have called while we were out.
(Not had to call)
(must have + past participle for deduction)

mustn't • shouldn't (worry)/oughtn't to (worry)

- You shouldn't worry./You oughtn't to worry.
(Not shouldn't to worry* *oughtn't worry) (i.e. in my opinion, it is not advisable to; mustn't worry is also possible and would simply be stronger)
- That sign means we mustn't turn left.
(Not shouldn't* oughtn't to mustn't to *haven't to) (mustn't for a strong prohibition imposed by some outside authority)

mustn't (be) • can't (be)

- I know he looks older, but he can't be more than 30. (Not mustn't be* *mustn't to be) (can't (be) is the negative of must (be) to express certainty or deduction. Compare: He must be more than 30.)
- In future, he mustn't be so careless.
(mustn't (be) expresses negative obligation)

mutton • lamb • sheep

- There was a flock of sheep grazing on the hillside. (Not mutton(s)* *sheeps) (sheep - singular and plural form - is the name of the live animal)
- We're having roast lamb/mutton for Sunday lunch. (Not sheep) (lamb/mutton is meat from sheep; lamb is meat from an animal less than two years old; mutton is from an animal of two years or more. These days, mutton is rare and expensive. Lamb is also used to describe a young live animal: young lambs in spring)

my/your, etc. • the

- The boys were fighting and one of them punched the other in the teeth.
(Not in his teeth)
(we often use the after prepositions to refer to parts of the body, hair or clothing: pull someone by the hair, by the sleeve)
- I'm cleaning my teeth. (Not the teeth) (normal use of a possessive adjective)

myself • by myself

- I live by myself.
(= alone)
- I did all the work (by) myself.
(= without help)
(and for other reflexive pronouns: yourself, himself, herself, itself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves)

N

name • call

- What's he called?/What's his name?
(Not How's he called/named?* *What's he named?)
- What's this called in Greek? (Not named)
- What do you call it? (Not How do you call/name it?* *What do you name it?)

nation • country

- Haiti is a poor country. (Not nation)
In 1901 the British nation mourned the death of Queen Victoria. (Not country)
- The President will speak to the country/nation this evening.
(country refers to the area within national borders; nation refers to the people who live there; sometimes either word will do)

natives • locals

- If you're travelling in Wales, you'll find that the locals are very friendly. (Not natives)
(= the people who live there; very informal)
- The original settlers carried on a brisk trade with the natives.
(= the original people) (natives = 'tribal people' is offensive in most modern contexts. The reference is usually joking: If you want to find a good pub in London, ask one of the natives.)

natural • physical

- Boxers take a lot of physical punishment. (Not natural)
(= of the body)
- It's quite natural for a boy's voice to break when he's about 14. (Not physical) (i.e. to be expected, a process of nature)

nauseous • sick

- Stop the car! I feel sick!
(AmE also feel nauseous)
(= 'I'm going to vomit'; note also airsick, carsick, seasick and travelsick)
- Most women feel nauseous in the third month of pregnancy.
(= wanting to vomit; nausea and nauseous are technical medical terms) nearly • near (to) • close (to)

- We sheltered in a cave close to/near the top of the mountain. (Not close the mountain) (near and close to as prepositions)
- We were near to/close to exhaustion.
(near to has limited uses, suggesting 'approaching')
- That dog is vicious. Don't go near/close!
(Not nearly closely)
(near/close can be used adverbially)
- I'm nearly ready.
(= almost) (nearly is an adverb of degree)

neat • net • clean • clear

- The packet contains 60 grams net. The net weight is 60 grams.
(Not neat/clean/clear weight)
- What's the net tax/profit?
(Not neat/clean/clear profit)
(net can combine with weight, tax, profit: net weight = the actual weight, without packaging; a net/clear profit = actual, after all expenses, etc.)
- We made a net/clear profit of £200.
(Not did a clear profit neat clean)
(to make or show a clear/net profit/gain)
- I've just vacuumed your office, so it's nice and clean. (Not neat)
(= not dirty)
- My desk is neat and tidy.
(i.e. everything is well arranged)
- My desk is clear.
(= without work that needs attention)
- I was able to drive to London quickly because the roads were clear. (Not clean) (= without traffic)

necessary • have to

- I have to go to the doctor's tomorrow.
(we normally use have to or must to express inescapable obligation; it's/it was/it will be necessary to are possible, but less common) necessitate

- Increasing competition necessitates (our) cutting costs. (Not to cut)
(i.e. we have to cut costs)

need • emergency

(= an unexpected, dangerous event)
- There was a great need for food and tents after the earthquake. (Not an emergency)
(= a requirement)

need • need to

- He needs to leave now if he's going to get that plane. (Not He need/needs leave)
(in affirmative sentences, we use the full verb need to. Need as a modal - that is without the use of to after it - occurs mainly in the negative: We needn't leave now, or with negative adverbs: I need hardly tell you how important this is.)
- Need I say what a relief it is?
(Not Need I to say)
- Do we need to carry any money with us?
(Not Do we need carry) (question forms of need and need to) need • take

- It takes an hour by bus. (Not It needs) (= 'that's how long the journey lasts')
- We need an hour to get to the airport. (= 'that's how long we require')
- This clock needs fixing. (Not needs to fix) needn't • don't need to

- We needn't leave yet. We don't need to leave yet. (Not needn't to leave) (we use either needn't + bare infinitive, or don't need to; they have the same meaning: 'we have a choice') needn't have • didn't have to • didn't need to • shouldn't have • oughtn't to have

The following three sentences mean 'I went there, but it was unnecessary'; after didn't in the second and third examples, have and need are stressed in speech:

- I needn't have gone to the office yesterday.
- I didn't have to go to the office yesterday.

- I didn't need to go to the office yesterday.

The following two sentences mean 'I knew it was unnecessary and I didn't go'; have and need are unstressed in speech:

- I didn't have to go to the office yesterday.
 - I didn't need to go to the office yesterday.
- Shouldn't have* and oughtn't to have suggest criticism of an action:
- I shouldn't have paid/I oughtn't to have paid the plumber in advance. (= but I did pay him) neither • nor • neither... nor

- Neither of us is/are working today. (a plural verb is usual in everyday speech, though a singular verb is formally correct)
- I don't like crowds. - Neither/Nor do I. (Not Neither and me./Nor and me. **)
- There isn't any danger. Neither/Nor is there any cause for concern. (Not Neither/Nor there is any cause ... ) (inversion after negative adverbs; formal and emphatic. Compare normal word order with a negative verb: There isn't (any) cause for concern, either.)
- Neither my parents nor my sister is red-haired. (Not neither ... or; the verb generally agrees with the nearest noun)

nerves • nerve • annoyed

- You've got a nerve asking for a loan when you still owe me £20! (Not have nerves* *have nerve)
- Loud rock music really gets on my nerves. (= irritates me)

- Have you seen John's new car?
(Not the new car of John)
(add 's to a name to show possession)
- Have you seen Doris's new car?
(Not the new car of Doris Dori's car) (add 's to a name to show possession, even if the name already ends in s: first names like Charles and Doris; surnames like Jones and Watts)
- It was a week's work.
(rather than 'the work of a week') ('s/s' for some time references and fixed phrases like the earth's surface) compound nouns or of for non-living things
- Have you seen the car key? (Not the car's key); preferable to the key of the car)
- We land at Luton Airport. (Not Luton's Airport the Airport of Luton)
(we don't normally use 's and s' for non-living things; where possible, we prefer to use a compound noun rather than a construction with of: the table-leg, rather than the leg of the table)

- The cost of living is too high.
(Not The living's cost The living cost; though we can use the plural living costs) (if we cannot form a compound, we use of)
- John is a friend of my father's/of yours.
(Not a friend of my father/of you but we can say my father's friend, your friend) (of and 's together in 'double genitives')

of course/indeed/naturally

- Is it hot outside? - Yes, it is.
(Not Of course! Indeed!)
(we normally use a verb in short answers. Of course!, Naturally! and Indeed! are so emphatic that they can sound rude) Naturally, I found it difficult at first. (preferable to Of course, which is often over-used to introduce a remark)
- You will be home this evening, won't you? - Of course.
(i.e. it goes without saying)

(turn on for taps and switches)
- Please open the window/the door.
(open for windows and doors; note open/draw the curtains, not turn on) opened • open

- When we got home, we found that all the windows were open. (Not opened)
(= not closed; that's how we found them) (opened is not the adjectival equivalent of closed or shut: All the windows were closed/shut.)
- When we got home, we found that all the windows had been opened.
(= someone had opened them; opened here is a past participle) opportunity of/to • chance of/to

- Book now, or you won't have a chance of getting seats. (Not an opportunity of) (= 'a hope')
- A holiday in the Alps would give us the chance/opportunity to get fit.
- Our holiday gave us a chance/an opportunity of getting fit.
(to or of+ -ing after chance/opportunity)
- You never miss an opportunity to miss an opportunity. (Not lose an opportunity) oppose • be opposed to (= inquiring about identity)

- How is he?
(= inquiring about health)

who • whom

question-words

- Who paid the waiter? - John did.
- Who(m) did John pay? - The waiter.
- Who(m) did you give it to/buy it for? - John.
(technically, the question-word Who asks for the subject and Whom asks for the object; in practice, Who ... ? is accepted in place of Whom ... ? in everyday style)

relative pronouns

- He's the man who rang me. (Not whom) (who refers to the subject)
- He's the man who(m) I met on holiday.
(whom refers to the object but is commonly reduced to who in everyday speech)

2 The news

What I enjoy most on television is the actualities. You can see actual events as they occur. You can see famous people being examined and giving their opinions on world events. I enjoy reading daily journals as well. There are not only plenty of news, but interesting histories about ordinary people as well. Life would be boring without all the entertainment and informations you get in newspapers and on television.

4 Keeping clean

Every morning when I awake up I have a bathe before getting dressed. Sometimes I have a douse instead, but if I've got up late I just have time for a wash myself. I like to do a shampooing every day as well. Washing up frequently and keeping clear is one of the pleasures of the life.

91 Stative and dynamic uses of certain verbs

All the verbs in the list below are often used in simple tenses. For example:

*John sees very well without glasses. (Not is seeing)*

However, thirteen of the verbs can be used quite easily in the progressive, sometimes with a change of meaning:

John is seeing his dentist on Wednesday. (= has an appointment with)

Tick the remaining twelve verbs that can be used in the progressive.

admire	desire	imagine
appear	detest	matter
believe	differ	measure
belong	disagree	need
concern	disbelieve	own
consider	dislike	possess
consist	envy	say
contain	excel	see
correspond with	fear	think
cost	feel	want
deserve	hope	weigh

Write twelve sentences using the present progressive with the verbs you have ticked.

96 A campaign against litter

Read this text. If you find a mistake in a line, cross it out and suggest an alternative. If there is no mistake, put a tick (✓). The first two have been done for you.

Our local council is conducting an action	0	a campaign
to reduce the amount of litter in our streets.	0	✓
We are all being encouraged to pick	1
any rubbish we see laying in the street	2
and fetch it to the nearest litter bin.	3
If we see anyone drop litter in the street,	4
we're supposed to tell them to collect it.	5
Council workers regularly brush the streets	6
and collect rubbish from big green bins.	7
There are large posters everywhere which say:	8
'Do a good act today! Keep our streets	9
clear! Don't be a Jitterbug!'	10
Of course, it isn't easy to tell people	11
what to do. A lot of people object to be	12
told to pick up their rubbishes.	13
The problem is extremely bad out of	14
fast food restaurants. Though these restaurants kindly	15
supply large bins, a lot of people	16
neglect them and leave their litter in the street.	17
The consumption of food at these places is	18
very great, so it is difficult to control	19
garbage disposition. Girl guides	20
and boy scouts have volunteered to make an example	21
to others. If these girls and boys see	22
anyone letting something to drop	23
they directly pick it up and then they speak	24
very politely to the person who dropped it.	25
'I think this belongs to you,' they say, handing it back.	26
Even the biggest litterbugs feel shy of themselves.	27
They usually redden and accept the litter.	28
They also accept to dispose of it properly	29
and immediately search the nearest rubbish bin.	30
The other day I saw a young mother with her little boy.	31
The boy picked up a dirty ice-cream carton and	32
his mother said, 'That's dirty! Throw it!'	33
A boy scout who was following them said,	34
'No. Give it to me. I'll put it in a bin for you.'	35
The young mother angered. 'I can do that myself,'	36
she said and she took the carton from the scout.	37
Then she decided to give a good example to her son.	38
'We must take place in this campaign, too!' she said.	39
She thanked the scout for being so genteel	40
and he thanked her, too. There's not doubt	41
the counsel's campaign is going to be a great success.	42 drinking water, a car key. concrete noun: a noun that refers to people or things that have physical existence: a girl, a desk, an army. conditional: a clause, often introduced by if.

If you miss the bus, take a taxi.

conjunction: conjunctions are 'joining words' like and, but, since, when. consonant: any letter (b, c, d) in the alphabet except the vowels a, e, i, o, u. continuity verb: verbs like lie, live, rain, which naturally express continuity: I live/I'm living in London.

countable noun: a noun we use with a/an (a book) and which has a plural (books).

direct object: what comes immediately after a transitive verb: He annoys me. double genitive: the use of 's in a phrase with of: a friend of my father's. dynamic verb: a verb which can be used in progressive tenses: I'm reading. -ed form: the form of a verb or adjective that ends in -(e)d: annoyed, surprised.

empty subject: usually, the pronoun it, which doesn't refer to something in particular: It's hot today. figurative: referring to an abstract rather than literal meaning: She can't stomach him. (= has a strong feeling of dislike for) formal style: speech or writing which is careful, correct and polite. full stop: a mark

(.) which is used to end a sentence or show an abbreviation: etc.

gender: the way nouns or pronouns may be classified to show whether they are masculine, feminine or neuter: he is masculine; she is feminine. gerund: a noun, formed from a verb, which ends in -ing: I'm tired of waiting.

gradable: usually applied to adjectives which can be used with very/too and can have -er/-est forms: very big; bigger.

idiom: a phrase which does not have a literal meaning: He hit the ceiling. (= became angry) imperative: the form of a verb we use for commands, warnings, etc.: Stand up!

indefinite pronoun: pronouns like anyone, everyone, someone which don't refer to anyone in particular. indirect question: one that follows a reporting verb like ask: He asked (me) if I was ready. indirect speech: the act of reporting what someone else says: The boss told me/said he was busy. infinitive: the basic form of a verb which may be with or without to: to go, go.

informal style: speech or writing used among friends. -ing form: any word ending in -ing, which may be part of a verb (I'm reading), a noun or gerund (Reading is taught early.) or an adjective (He told me a frightening story).

intensifier: an adverb which strengthens (or 'intensifies') another word: very slowly, I entirely agree. intransitive: this refers to a verb not followed by an object: My head aches.

inversion: changing round the normal word order: Seldom have we received so many complaints.

irregular: often applied to a plural noun (children) or verb (go - went) which doesn't follow the usual pattern. jargon: referring to words and/or phrases used in special or technical ways. main verb: the verb in the most important clause in a sentence. You always ring when I'm out. modal verb: modals are verbs like can or may which we use for giving or receiving advice, permission, etc. negative: the opposite of affirmative: anything that says or means 'no'. negative adverb: adverbs like never, seldom, rarely, hardly ever. negative imperative: the imperative with Don't: Don't forget what I told you. negative question: a question beginning with a negative form like Can't or Don't: Can't you wait a moment? noun: a word that tells us what someone or something is called (a doctor, a book, fear, water); also the name of a person (John) or a place (London). noun modifier: the first of two nouns in a compound noun: car key, kitchen table. noun phrase: a combination of words that includes a noun: the man next door. object: usually a noun or pronoun that comes after a verb: Ask a question. participle: the present -ing form of a verb (waiting) or the past -ed form (seated): While waiting for a bus ...; Seated in the back of a taxi, passive: the form of the verb where the action is done to the subject: Our house has been decorated. past participle: the third part of a verb: act - acted -acted; be - was - been. person(s): grammatical persons: 1st: I/we; 2nd: you; 3rd: he, she, it, they. plural: more than one; plural noun: cats; plural form of verb: they have. point of time: exact time reference in the past: yesterday, this morning, etc. possessive adjective: my, your, his, etc. possessive case: possession shown by 's/s': a boy's jacket; a girls' school. possessive pronoun: mine, yours, his, etc. prefix: un-, in-, over-, etc., added to an adjective: uninterested, overdone. preposition: words like across, at, in, used in front of nouns, etc., to show relationships: across the road. prepositional phrase: a phrase introduced by a preposition: in doubt, on time. present perfect tense: have been, have done, have eaten, etc. present tense: simple present (I eat); present progressive (I'm eating).

progressive: a tense which shows that an action is or was in progress: He is eating. He was eating. pronoun: a word like he or she that can be used in place of a noun or noun phrase. proper noun: the name of a person or place, spelt with a capital letter: John, London. quantifier: a word or phrase like any, some, (a) few which describes how many things or how much of something. question-word: How?, or a word beginning with Wh-: When?, Why?, etc. reflexive pronoun: words like myself, yourself, himself, herself. reflexive verb: a verb which can be followed by a reflexive pronoun: enjoy yourself. regular: anything that follows the same pattern as most other words in the same class: regular plural: boys. relative pronoun: words that refer to people (who, whom, that) or things (which, that). reporting verb: a verb like say or tell (me) which introduces indirect speech. sentence: a complete unit of meaning, which in writing begins with a capital letter and ends with a full stop. short response: a short answer e.g. to a question: Is he here? - Yes, he is. singular: the grammatical form that describes one person or thing: a pen. slang: very informal language which is not used in serious speech or writing. stative: a verb that is not normally used in the progressive: It belongs to me. subject: usually a noun or pronoun that goes before a verb: Joe works, I work. superlative: an adjective or adverb formed with -est: the quickest, or with most: the most interesting. tag: a short question after a statement: He's gone, hasn't he? or a short 'Yes/No' answer: Yes, he has. (that)-clause: a clause introduced by (that) used after a reporting verb: He said (that) he would be home late. transitive: this refers to a verb that is always followed by an object: I like it, I enjoyed the film. uncountable noun: a noun which we don't normally use after a/an and which doesn't normally have a plural: sugar. verb: a word (love) or phrase (look at) which describes a state or an action. verb of perception: a stative verb that refers to the senses: see, hear, etc. vowel: a, e, i, o, u. word order: this refers to the order of words in a normal English sentence: subject/verb/object/manner/place/time.
