An Unexpected Holiday

All of a sudden, before two years ago, my aunt was rushed to hospital needing emergency surgery. She was fine but not very well enough to go on the two-week holiday she had booked months ahead. She asked for me if I wanted to go in her place. I jumped at the opportunity as I had never been to abroad before. Getting time off work was being easily arranged but doing last minute shopping was harder. There it seemed to be no shop that stocked swimming suits in mid-January! Finally, I got everything ready. As well as being a little nervous of flying, I was worried whether I would find a company. Everyone reassured me that I would meet lots of people and make friends in no any time at all. It felt like ages waiting for the plane to take off next morning. My holiday turned out that to be wonderful. Why? Because of I met lots of interesting people, and also because I had the chance to relax.
